

Yes! Today Grand Mother Allen is ~~years~~ years young. And I look at her and ~~think~~ hope that I can have the interest and outlook of life that she has when I'm as old as she.

I admire deeply her fine sense of humor. Although she is greatly handicapped by not always knowing exactly what is said in the outside world she always manages to keep her world full of sunshine and light heartedness.

She likes to read, and does a great deal of it. She also likes to listen to the radio. She also spends a lot of time sewing and doing fancy work. Which is unusually lovely. She must have a very high artistic ability.

because she keeps her home so beautiful and cosy, and her own person so neat and attractive.

I love to pass by her home and see her sitting in her rocker in the shade of the apple tree enjoying her lovely lawn and garden. That seems to me just as it should be.

Grandma is quite a traveler too. She has made a trip as two ^{quite recently} to visit her son and his family ^{in Montana} all by herself. Which seems to me to be quite an accomplishment.

I like the way she puts her arms around my children daughter and talks to them in a loving sort of way. She seems to have a lot of that quality that we are told is the highest of all, Love of our fellow men children.

I like the way she ~~set~~ slips up to my husband at a picnic and whisks a small piece of Ice down his neck. ~~aa~~

Yes Grandma ~~is~~ is a fine little person to know and we love
her deeply.
